GETTING HERE

By car

Ostrava is an important transport hub and a major intersection of the Moravian-Silesian Region. It's connected to a dense network of roads, connecting the cities of the whole agglomeration and neighbouring regions. The backbone of the road network is the D1 motorway, connecting Ostrava to Prague (370 km) or Brno (170 km) while also connecting us to the Polish A1 motorway, going to Katowice (90 km) and Gdansk (600 km).

TRANSPORT IN THE CITY

Public transport

A dense network of tram, bus and trolley lines in Ostrava is operated by the Ostrava transport company (DPO). An extremely developed suburban transport is also a part of the integrated transport system (ODIS) and you can easily reach other attractive places in the region.

There is a large number of stops and train stations in Ostrava. The most important are Hlavní nádraží (main station) and Ostrava Svinov. The main station is located in the city district of Přívoz and you can easily get to the city centre, Lower Vítkovice area and the Zoo from there. Ostrava-Svinov railway station is the ideal gateway to the city part Poruba. Passengers can find OSTRAVAINFO tourist information centres at both of these railway stations.

On bike

Ostrava is full of bike paths which can comfortably and safely take you to work or to the countryside. If you don't have your own bike, you can use a bike sharing system during the season. You can get more information in the OSTRAVAINFO!!! information centres.

Atmosphere. That is the best word to describe the area of the former Michal Mine in Michalkovice. You cannot go underground in this museum but luckily you won't even notice that. With a guide you can follow the route that miners took when they went to work. You can see unique chain dressing rooms, showers, marking room, registration room, lamp room or cafeteria. The infirmary and the geologist's office are also included in the tour. Expositions are preserved in such a way that it looks like the miners left the mine only a short time ago. The pride of the museum is a unique and still working steam engine from 1903.

Ostrava Zoo

The Ostrava Zoo has undergone extensive development in the last several years. It is the second largest Zoo in the Czech republic (100Ha) and we can find over 400 species and 4000 animals in a natural forest-like area. The main attractions are elephants, hippos, chimpanzees in the Evolution pavilion or African ungulates in the Safari pavilion. Several botanical routes offer entertainment for flora lovers, who can admire, especially in spring, blooming rhododendrons, of which there is the greatest number here of the entire Czech Republic. There is also an educational centre and a restaurant. Feeding with commentary and evening tours are the best events to visit!

Ostrava also has a castle. The Silesian Ostrava Castle was built on the Silesian bank of the Ostrava River near its confluence with the Lučina River in the 13th century. It used to be a house of lords and due to the mining activities the whole castle sank by 16 metres and had to be rebuilt in the year 2004. Inside the castle there are permanent exhibitions and displays, and the courtyard and amphitheatre host a large number of cultural and social events throughout the year, which are very popular with visitors.

Dinopark

Magic of Art Nouveau

Svatopluk Čech Square near the main railway station ❶ is dominated by the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Virgin Mary ❷ and the former Town Hall ❸. Both buildings and the whole urban plan of Přívóz, which is depicted on the pavement of the square, was designed by Viennese architect Camillo Sitte. After feasting your eyes on of Art Nouveau details on the surrounding houses, visit the Firefighting Museum ❹, or have some lunch at renovated Loft Restaurant ❺ (Hotel City, Macharova 105/16).

Poruba

 Walk length:
approx. 1.5 km

Monumentality and symbolism

The walk in search of the impressive Socialist Realism architecture starts at the modern auditorium of the Banská technical university ①. Hlavní třída ② is a broad, lively boulevard. Drop in for a coffee and admire the details on buildings inspired by Classicism and the Renaissance. The Vezickova house also has renaissance elements, look up and notice the funny frescoes under the cornice ③. After 500 metres you will come to the arch ④, which has become an icon of Poruba. The inspiration for the arch was St Petersburg's Palace Square.
